Competitive Landscape — Where Balmoral Stands

RDC Fine Homes

THREAT: HIGH — #1 RANKED

150+ pages, 90+ blogs, 17 Georgie Awards, Mike Holmes partnership.

Gap: Template design, soft CTAs. Volume is their only moat.

New Leaf Contracting

THREAT: HIGH — PEMBERTON-BASED

8 location+service pages, FAQPage schema, pricing content.

Gap: Zero blog content. No educational authority. Template design.

Schreyer Construction

THREAT: HIGH — MIKE HOLMES APPROVED

22+ awards, green building niche, press coverage.

Gap: Zero schema, identical metas, weak CTAs, broken tech.

Modern Concept Contracting

THREAT: MEDIUM

Best-looking competitor. Blueprint overlay aesthetic.

Gap: Lorem ipsum on ALL projects. Broken pages. Zero blog.

Whistler Builder

THREAT: MEDIUM

Best conversion funnel — lead magnet, newsletter, popup.

Gap: Whistler-only. No Pemberton/Squamish. Blog not in sitemap.

Balmoral (After Rebuild)

42 PAGES — CUSTOM DESIGN — FULL SCHEMA

Only custom-designed site in the corridor. 14 projects with real content. Complete JSON-LD. FAQPage on every service/location page.

> The bottom line: The rebuild gives Balmoral the strongest technical foundation of any builder in the Sea to Sky Corridor. The 6-month roadmap turns that foundation into a traffic and lead generation engine. By September 2026, Balmoral should have 50+ pages, 20+ Google reviews, and content targeting every high-value keyword in the corridor.

Photography, video & social to fuel the engine

A website without fresh content is a brochure. The pages are built. The SEO is dialled. But the site needs a steady stream of real imagery, video, and social presence to keep performing — and to keep feeding the blog, project pages, and location content that drives traffic.

Here's what a creative retainer looks like for Balmoral, and how every piece feeds back into the website and marketing ecosystem.

Photography

Quarterly project shoots — dedicated photo sessions for completed or in-progress projects. Architectural exteriors, interior details, lifestyle shots, team on site. Each shoot produces imagery for project pages, blog posts, social media, Google Business Profile, and Houzz/HomeStars.

What this feeds:

- ✓ New project page galleries — fresh portfolio content keeps the site alive
- ✓ Blog post hero images and inline photography
- ✓ Google Business Profile photos — proven to increase clicks and calls
- ✓ Houzz, HomeStars, and Instagram content library
- ✓ Location page imagery — real Balmoral photos instead of stock
- ✓ Print collateral, proposals, and pitch decks

Video

Project walkthroughs & drone — short-form video of completed builds and active job sites. Drone aerials, interior walkthroughs, detail shots, progress timelapses. Nobody in the corridor is doing this well — first mover advantage is real.

Client testimonials — 60–90 second interviews with past clients, filmed on location at their completed home. These are the most powerful trust signals you can put on a website.

What this feeds:

- ✓ Project pages — embedded video walkthroughs alongside photo galleries
- ✓ Homepage hero — video background or featured reel

- ✓ Reviews page — video testimonials alongside written reviews
- ✓ Instagram Reels and Stories — short-form cuts for social
- ✓ YouTube channel — long-form walkthroughs build authority and search presence
- ✓ Google Business Profile — video posts get priority in local results

Social Media

Instagram management — consistent posting schedule using imagery from shoots, job site progress, behind-the-scenes, team content, and project reveals. The feed becomes a visual portfolio that drives traffic back to the website.

What this looks like:

- ✓ 3–4 posts per week — mix of project photos, progress shots, reels, and stories
- ✓ Monthly content calendar planned around shoots and project milestones
- ✓ Hashtag and location strategy for Sea to Sky discovery
- ✓ Story highlights organized by project, process, and location
- ✓ Cross-posting to Houzz and HomeStars to keep profiles active
- ✓ Community engagement — responding to comments, tagging trades and collaborators

How It All Connects

> Every shoot feeds the website. Every video feeds social. Every blog post gets real imagery instead of stock. Every project page stays current. Every Google profile stays active. The retainer isn't a separate line item — it's the fuel that makes the entire system work. Without it, the site is static. With it, it compounds.

DELIVERABLE	FREQUENCY	FEEDS INTO
Project photography	Quarterly	Project pages, blog, social, GBP, Houzz
Drone / aerial	Per shoot	Project pages, social reels, homepage
Project walkthrough video	Quarterly	Project pages, YouTube, social, GBP
Client testimonial video	2–3 per year	Reviews page, homepage, social, ads
Instagram management	Ongoing	Brand presence, website traffic, leads
Houzz / HomeStars updates	Monthly	Review profiles, referral traffic
Blog content	2 per month	SEO, social, newsletter, authority

DELIVERABLE	FREQUENCY	FEEDS INTO
New SEO pages	1–2 per month	Keyword rankings, organic traffic

WHERE WE STAND

The site is ready.
The opportunity is now.

Balmoral's website has gone from a basic Squarespace template to the most technically sound, best-designed builder site in the Sea to Sky Corridor. Every page is custom coded, internally linked, and optimized for the keywords that matter. The foundation is built.

What separates builders who dominate local search from the ones who don't isn't a single launch — it's consistency. Consistent content, consistent imagery, consistent presence. The 6-month roadmap and creative retainer are designed to turn this foundation into a compounding asset that generates leads month after month.
